

Congratulations you are not quite the dullards I took you for!

I have set in motions events which will bring about your eventual demise; however I wish to see you wriggle on the end of my hook first in a futile attempt to escape.

I offered each of you fortune and prestige in my illustrious organisation for which you insulted me with your contemptuous cries of "duty" and "obligation" to the decaying monument of this failed British Empire which you hold in such high regard. Believe me when I say such delusions will not aid you in your upcoming struggle.

I look forward to our final confrontation.
